All of us are faced with choices as older adults involving the tension between independence and safety, combined with the necessity of considering costs. Senior housing is quite a challenge. This presentation will focus on the different housing options available to us as we approach this need in our aging process. The presentation will feature breakout groups for discussion and a Q&A session. An optional session on Aging in Place will be offered at the end.

Susan Hoskins, LCSW, is a licensed clinical social worker specializing in gerontology and Director of the Friends Foundation for the Aging, whose mission is "collaborating to seek innovative, sustainable solutions, grounded in Friends' values, for older adults and their families." Previously she was Director of the Princeton Senior Resource Center for 17 years. She is a member of Newtown Meeting in Bucks County.

Jen Harris, the Director of Admissions and Community Relations at The Hickman, has worked there for 16 years and has a wealth of experience in helping folks' transition to The Hickman and keeping residents engaged with the world.
